

ABSTRACT

5 The invention concerns sensing means (13) functionally associated with the control member (11) of means receiving media programs (12) so as to detect at all times the identity of the program being listened to on the receiver means (12) and for continuously transmitting said information to computing means (15).